THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

A New York dispatch says:

"Last Saturday, a considerable company, representing all denominations in the United States interested in foreign missions, and maintaining missionaries in all parts of the world, sailed for England. Earlier in the week approximately three hundred missionaries and representatives of missionary boards sailed, the number being so large that it was found expedient to charter a steamer for the ocean passage of these missionaries and their friends.

"All parts of the United States were represented, and every denomination which maintains foreign missions. The immediate purpose of this early summer excursion is the decennial missionary conference, which is to be held in Edinburgh later in this month, and is to be in session ten days.

"Ten years ago a conference of this kind was held in this city. It was at that time predicted that within a few years the missionary work would have attained such proportions that it would be recognized not only from the religious, but from the material and commercial point of view, as one of the great factors of modern civilization.

"That prediction appears to have been fairly well justified. There are to gather in Edinburgh some 1,200 delegates and representatives of mission work, and of this number 600 will represent the United States. And that is a fair proportion, since no country begins to raise and expend the amount of money for foreign mission work which the United States is now doing.

"A carefully made estimate of the contributions made by American churches yearly for the support of foreign missions shows the sum approximately at $10,000,000. No other nation contributed so much by one-half. Furthermore, in the United States a very impressive movement is now going on which has for its purpose the pledging by American churches of all denominations of not less than $20,000,000, and if possible, $40,000,000 a year for the support of these institutions.

This large delegation, and unusual interest is largely due to the laymen's movement which has resulted in a strong organization. Its object is to civilize as well as Christianize and its influence is already being felt. Insurance and superstition always go together. The Chinese Empire regards a railroad as a work of the devil, and until recently railroads were barred from China. Turkey has but one road and that is a burlesque. Where these conditions prevail commercial enlightenment, through appeals to self-interest, is necessary before much can be accomplished by way of Christian enlightenment. The railroads have accomplished much in lighting up dark Africa, and so the laymen's movement will combine Christian progress and honest business methods in working out the problems of the world's evangelism.

THE HORSE AND THE MOTOR.

The question of whether the motor truck is to succeed the draft horse in the cities, is being freely discussed and in the absence of anything but speculative knowledge the motor is given the benefit of the doubt and good horses are growing scarcer every year.

With a view to finding out conditions the Boston Work-Horse Parade association has just issued a bulletin which contains interviews from large manufacturers in fifty cities of the United States, and with but few exceptions the opinion prevails that the motor truck will never succeed the horse, and that farmers are warranted good prices for all the draft horses they can raise for many years to come.

The Boston Work-Horse Parade association was organized in 1902, and is the pioneer in holding work-horse parades in this country. It is a purely charitable corporation, and its sole object is to improve the condition and treatment of work-horses.

The directors have been impressed by the scarcity of work-horses and the high prices which they bring, and especially by the high price of government-owned horses, as well as the government estimates place the average value of horses in the United States this year as greater than last year by the amount of $13.55. The price of a fine big draft horse in New York is now $500, and it is not much less in Boston. One hundred horses were lately sold at this price to a New York contractor, and another hundred to a brewery corporation. It is hardly possible now to buy in any Eastern city for less than $75 a horse that can be worked without violating the laws against cruelty to animals.

The increase in population of the country, the movement of dwellers in the city to homes in the suburbs, and other reasons that might be mentioned, make a continually increasing demand for horses. The only possible reason why breeders and farmers should not raise horses suitable for draft work and for general work is the widespread fear that the motor wagon may soon take the place of the work-horse. In order to discover whether this fear was well founded, the Boston Work-Horse Parade association has caused an investigation to be made, and the results are stated in the report referred to.

Railroad managers found no difficulty in reaching an understanding with the President at the conference held at the White House yesterday. Heavy action was largely responsible for the trouble. When the new railroad bill becomes a law and congress adjourns, conditions will improve rapidly. The country needs a rest and if the next session of congress could be postponed until 1912 it would be better for all concerned. We are overworked with laws and regulations which require time to digest.

The convention to be held in Milwaukee tomorrow is a republican convention, pure and simple. Stalwartism and half-brotherhood are of the past, and the man who attempts to resurrect them and revive the old factional fight, should be called to time in short order. The party as a party needs re-organizing and the first object of the convention should be to promote harmony.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon says, "If the Lord will be good to us and give us three days of 90-degree weather, congress will adjourn in short order." Here's hoping that a hot wave may visit the capital at an early date. Congress has more lumbered than on the line now than can possibly be dried out before the opening of the next session.

The State School for the Blind, under the wise management of the new superintendent, Dr. Brown, is closing one of the most successful years in its history. The homelike atmosphere which pervades the place has contributed largely to the happiness of the household, and encouraged ambition.

Wall street was quick to respond to the news from Washington yesterday, and railroad stocks recovered rapidly. Many heavy losses were recouped and men who sold short found difficulty in getting under cover.

The Madison Interurban line has been built so many times on a paper that a little muscular work, by way of construction, is necessary to inspire confidence.

PRESS COMMENT.

It's Card Here.

In Paris the epicures are eating and drinking and enjoying the delicious. Political candidates, please note.—Milwaukee News.

Thirsty and "Broke."

Detour, Mich., has gone "broke" as the result of going "dry." When the next local option campaign is held in that place it would be safe to bet that it goes "wet."—Green Bay Gazette.

Doing Unto Others.

Women have not all the rights that men have under the law; but neither have they all the obligations of support, of alimony, of signature in contracts. If women insist on holding their property free from husband control, will men insist on a similar freedom? If women receive alimony, will they not have to pay alimony? If women sue for breach of promise, will they not be sued?—Durand Courier.

Political Arithmetic.

Democratic managers in Washington in their forecast of the next congress take three districts in Wisconsin. The Socialists in Milwaukee take two. This leaves the Republicans only six districts for which they should be duly grateful.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Serve the Party.

Let the parties make the platform. In convention assembled, as of old. That is what will have to be done if party organization and influence are to survive. The provision of the primary election law placing the platform-making power in the hands of candidates, is a serious menace to the rule of the people.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Mrs. Mary had a little lamb; the fact's well known, gadzooks! With many a chart and diagram, it's written in the books. And it is MARY's also written there how LAMB, Mary went to school, and how the teacher broke a chair upon the lambkin's wool; but history narrows no more, and Mary and her sheep drop out of all the actuals here, and in oblivion sleep. Oh, Mary, when you lived your days, so long, so long ago, this weary world had simpler ways, and lambs were white as snow, my dear, and the middle like you would cry once and a while, when their brief stunts were through. If you were living in this age of dust and sounding brass, and she the lamb, alas! The teacher, too, who turned him out, as though he were a dog, would hold the boards a while and spend a dreary moment. The children, too, who fingered their books, would be their fathers' between the acts they would appear and spring the "comic" game. Oh, all would do their little stunts, and draw their princely wages; the schoolhouse would be put on wheels, and hauled across the stage!

TWO THOUSAND INVITATIONS ISSUED TO DREXEL WEDDING ON JUNE 8.

London.—The wedding of Miss Margaret Drexel to Viscount Maldstone on June 8 at St. Margaret's church, Westminster, will be the most elaborate of the season. Among the 2,000 invitations issued are many to the highest royalty of Europe.

Nothing is to be spared to make the event the largest of the year. The court fete, Goodyear, has carte blanche in regard to the decoration of the church and the Drexel house in Grosvenor square. Canon Hensley Wilson, rector of St. Margaret's, will assist the bishop of London in the ceremony. Mr. Drexel will give his daughter away.

The bride's skirt will have a panel of lace at one side, while a scarf of the same will be draped from one shoulder to the bodice and her veil will, to all intents and purposes, be double—one of lace at the back and one of tulle over the face. Then, as a final effect, from the shoulders will be hung a long court train.

It is estimated that the bride's wedding presents are worth $250,000, but she has selected a small necklace of pearls worth not over $700 to wear on her wedding day. At the Grosvenor house the couple will receive the congratulations of friends, standing on the Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WRINKLES.

I clipped this from the "Beauty" page of a Sunday newspaper:
"Wrinkles are caused by tired muscles. They are more easily prevented than cured. To remain wrinkleless woman must live a placid existence, free from emotion."

Certainly, but—
I should like to see the picture of the woman—except she be a barren beauty—who is able to live a placid existence, free from emotion.

Why, emotion is woman's life. She will seek it if it does not come to her. She lives in her heart. For that is she a woman. She cannot escape her lot.

Only in childhood she can live a more or less "placid" life, free from emotion.

As a young bride she must undertake the trials of the new housekeeper. The process of readjustment to the wedded life is not an easy one, and often it is made to the accompaniment of many tears. She cannot desert because of misdeeds and the beginning of wrinkles.

Free from emotion?
As the wife she must share the burdens and divide the sorrows of her husband. She cannot live the placid life and suffer him to go on alone. She, too, must wrinkle her brow.

The placid life?
As the mother she must suffer all the pangs of motherhood. How can she live a life free from emotion when her heart clutches in an agony of love and fear through the watches of the night for her baby's sake? What cure she in such an hour that the wrinkles may come to her face?

Moreover—
What sort of woman would she be who escape all these shocks of emotion? She must be aimless, for a fixed purpose means struggle. She must be loveless, for love means self sacrifice. Do not misunderstand.

Woman may escape much needless worry and useless striving. Modern woman is teaching how to rest her tired muscles by reasonable relaxation.

But the woman's world at the best is a hard one. She must face it. And the wrinkles sooner or later must needs come to her.

Let her not be ashamed.

The sweetest faces you know are wrinkled faces. And every wrinkle tells a story of vicissitudes.

The sweetest face I ever knew was wrinkled. The last time I saw it was in a coffin. It was the face of mother.

CHARGE "JOKER" IN RATE BILL.

Democrats Declare It Will Permit the Legalizing of Rebates.

Washington, June 7.—Senatorial charges that a rebate "joker" is contained in the railroad rate bill are being made, thereby adding additional confusion to the progress of the so-called administration measure.

Democratic leaders in the house discovered the alleged "joker" and openly declare it would permit the railroads to engage in rebating without fear of prosecution. It is in the form of a five-line provision to that section of existing law which prescribes a penalty of $250 for failure to quote a rate to a shipper on request or for misquoting a rate.

The proviso, which is said to nullify laws prohibiting rebates, was presented by Senator Shively, a Democrat, and is as follows:

"Provided, however, that notwithstanding anything in this section contained, any person or company suffering damage in consequence of any violation of any of the provisions of this section shall have the right to recover such damage by suit against the carrier in any court of competent jurisdiction."

MASONS MAY DECIDE TO GIVE UP STRIKE

Passed Resolution Abandoning the Eight Hour Day Demand But Ask 60 Cents Per Hour.
Several of the contractors have been informed, unofficially, that in accordance with resolutions supposed to have been passed by the Masons' union last evening, they would receive notification this afternoon that the workmen were willing to withdraw their demand for an eight hour day and go back to their tasks under the old nine hour regime providing the scale should be advanced from 50 to 60 cents an hour. While there are said to be a number of contractors who are in favor of the contractors who were interviewed today do not evince any particular opinion over the reported decision of the union. Some of the building work has been permanently abandoned for the season and in other instances cement construction has been substituted. In still others outside, non-union workmen are reported to be getting along pretty well with whatever work there is at hand. The contractors feel that the union treated them unfairly in precipitating a strike without the customary six months' notice and some of them believe that the local branch, in thus, as they claim, violating the code, struck without authority from the national association. So far as could be learned none of the contractors had received the official notification above alluded to up to three o'clock this afternoon.

MICHAEL MULQUIN IS NEVER IN THE COURTS

Great Injustice Was Done Him in Yesterday's Paper by Confusion of His Name With That of Mike Riley.

Mr. Mulquin is a law-abiding citizen of the highest standing and reputation in the community and it is needless to add that he is never up before Judge Field and the Gazette regrets the error.

THEFTS AT MADISON AND AT JEFFERSON

Communications Regarding Them Have Been Received by the Local Police Department.

He carried away a gold watch, several rings, a pearl and diamond brooch, a gold bracelet, neck chain and locket, and other valuables. At Jefferson a man with a birth mark under one of his eyes stole a blue suit of clothes at the hotel. He was supposed to be headed this way and the police authorities were advised to look out for him.

Doomed for Grand Secretary D. P. O.

GEORGE D. BOSTOCK.

Detroit, Mich.—When the Elks gather the second week in July for their great annual jostest they are going to stop long enough in the midst of their round of pleasure prepared by the Detroit lodge to select officers for the ensuing year. This position of grand secretary is a coveted and responsible one, and many aspirants backed by their local lodges, are already in the field. Among those prominently mentioned is George D. Bostock of "Daisy" lodge, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Dixie" Bostock has been secretary of his lodge almost continuously since its inception and his record is an enviable one. A "prince of good fellows" bubbling over with enthusiasm and believing firmly in the high ideals and lofty principles on which the order is founded, he would be a credit to the order and an efficient and faithful officer should he succeed in winning the election.

A Flank Approach.
"Sir, are you an optimist or a pessimist?" "What's that to you?" "Well, I am generally interested in an optimist for a small loan, but with a pessimist there ain't so much chance."

CHARGES...BIG GRAFT PLOT

Alleges Collusion Between Companies That Got Contracts and Former Employees—Amount Lost Nearly $2,000,000—Criminal Action Probable.

Chicago, June 7.—When Judge Walker granted an injunction of an injunction against those accused, some of the details of the graft investigation growing out of the alleged grafting operations in the Illinois Central railroad, in which the company was robbed of nearly $2,000,000, were uncovered.

Contracts Held Up.
The injunction restrains the defendants from carrying out contracts given them by the Illinois Central.

The defendants are:
H. O. Osterman, the West Pullman Car company, the American Car and Equipment company, J. C. Buckner, formerly superintendent of machinery of the Illinois Central railroad; William Henshaw, formerly in the employ of the railroad; O. S. Keith, formerly superintendent of trains for the railroad company, and John M. Taylor, formerly general storekeeper.

The avowed purpose of the suit, which was filed by Attorney Murry Nelson, Jr., is to tie up the business of the concerns mentioned as defendants. These, it is charged, have bilked the railroad company out of the amount mentioned through collusion with the former employees of the line, who also are named as defendants.

Criminal Action Is Demanded.
The suit, it is understood, was filed, preparatory to grand jury action. It is planned to have the entire matter taken to State's Attorney Wayman's office, with the demand that criminal action be started.

Osterman gained notoriety through spectacular spending of money in Chicago and other cities. He recently severed his connections with the West Pullman company. His stock was purchased by members of the board of directors.

DEMAND NATIONAL PARLIAMENT.

Chinese Reformers Will Make Plea at Once—Early Response Unlikely.

Peking, China, June 7.—Formal demand will be made upon the throne Wednesday for the immediate convocation of a national parliament. The authors of the demand are the delegates to the provincial assemblies, who have the support of organizations of merchants. The recently issued imperial decree constituting the provincial assemblies sets forth that the way was being paved for a general legislative body to be summoned nine years after the first meeting of the assemblies.

Delegates to these assemblies are gathering here with the avowed purpose of exacting the issuance of an imperial decree summoning a national parliament forthwith. They have decided not to leave the capital until their plea is granted.

Eight of the delegates are pledged to suicide, if Prince Chun, the regent, decides to adhere to his original program. Merchants are furthering the aims of the delegates by refusing to pay the stamp tax until the regent comes to their way of thinking.

PLAN HUGE SKYSCRAPER HOTEL.

New York Company Incorporates and Will Erect $3,000,000 Structure.

New York, June 7.—During the next few days there will be incorporated in Albany a company to be known as the Greely Square Hotel company for the purpose of taking over a long term lease of the property on the east side of Broadway, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets. Present plans are carried out a gigantic hotel, twenty-two stories high, will be erected in the plot. It is understood the cost of the new structure will approximate $3,000,000, the valuation of the land being between $3,000,000 and $7,000,000.

GOLDWIN SMITH NEAR DEATH.

"Grand Old Man" of Canada Cannot Live Through Another Day.

Toronto, Canada, June 7.—The remarkable vitality which has sustained Dr. Goldwin Smith since an accident four months ago forced him to keep to his room is almost run out and the distinguished man of letters lies in his home, "The Grange," at the point of death.

The physicians are doubtful whether he can live another 24 hours.

Hurled Through Wind Shield.

Denver, Col., June 7.—Edna Warner, seven-year-old daughter of Louis Warner of this city, was hurled through the glass wind shield of an automobile when the machine, which was driven by the father, collided with a telegraph pole.

Suicide Leaves Pathetic Note.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 7.—"My feet hurt and nobody cares for me. May God have mercy on my soul." This was the suicide note left by Joseph Kress, a rural mail carrier whose body was found hanging in a barn at Bennettsville.

The Part of Wisdom.

When a man does you an injury, make it your business to remember the man, but to forget the injury.

London Horse Show Opens.

London, June 7.—The international horse show opened at Olympia. It will continue ten days. Although lacking royal patronage, to which it has owed much in the past, the annual exhibition has been awaited with peculiar interest by society and horsemen as one of the few events of a season robbed of the usually gayety because of mourning for King Edward.

Cotton Drafts In Protest.

Liverpool, June 7.—With a view of determining in the courts the responsibility of banking houses in connection with the defective bills of lading, alleged to have been issued by Knight, Yancey & Co., of Decatur, Ala., some of the local cotton men refused to meet their acceptance, which fell due on Saturday, on the ground that the collateral security was fraudulent.

Long-Lived North Carolina Family.
Randolph county, in North Carolina, can boast of many large families, but doubtless one of the Lowdermilk families is not only among the largest in the county, but for the length of life surpasses any family in the state or nation.

From the marriage of W. M. Lowdermilk and Youthy Cole early in the nineteenth century there were born 14 children. One died in infancy, two in young manhood and 12 reached ages ranging from sixty-seven to ninety years, as follows: Stephen, seventy-eight; Alice, eighty; Annie, seventy-nine; Adeline, seventy; Reuben, seventy-two; Israel, seventy-two; Winny, eighty-one; Emalee, ninety; Kasey, eighty-eight; Alfred, eighty-five; Rahsom, eighty-four; Z. H., seventy-one, and Malvina, sixty-seven. The last six are still living, some of whom are enjoying good health.

The grand aggregate of the ages of the 13 whose ages are given above is 1,017 years, or an average of over 78 years.

Man and Dog Enlist.

For the first time in the history of the American navy a man and his bride bull pup have been allowed to enlist. The man refused to join without his dog, and the president's permission, which was readily given, had first to be obtained before the authorities at the recruiting station could send the man and his dog aboard a man-of-war.

German Sportsmen.

Half a million sportsmen in Germany kill annually 40,000 head of red and fallow deer, 200,000 roebuck, 4,000,000 hares, 4,000,000 partridges and 400,000 wild ducks, in all some 25,000,000 marks, or $5,000,000, forming nearly 1 per cent of the total meat supply of Germany.—C. G. Schilling's "In Darkest Africa."

If all thought alike, there would be no horse trading or advertising.

ROUSING CASH June 11th ROUND-UP SALE to July 2nd

We Will Round-up All Odd Lots and Bargains From All Over the Store and Arrange Them For Quick Selling.

A General Reduction will be made on everything in our great stock. A cold, backward spring has had its effect on business. Rainy days have kept people at home. Buying Goods is very much like Going to Church. It takes but a few drops of rain to keep many away from "meeting", but the same people will brave a severe storm to attend the theatre. When weather conditions are bad business drops off. To offset the losses occasioned by conditions over which we have no control we will make the prices a "theatre" attraction so to speak, make them so low that cold weather or rainy days cannot keep people away.

Now is the time to make a Rousing Sale—the month of June, when people have wants to supply.

For three weeks we will make business Hum if Low Prices will do it.

Our Ability to make a Rousing Sale is well known on account of the tremendous stock we have to sell from.

When The Big Store gets busy on a Sale people take notice as they have never been fooled.

WHEN EVERYTHING LOOKS BAD

Then is the Time to Bring Out the Ginger Jar and Take a Good Dose of Its Contents.

Do you feel gloomy, melancholy, dejected? Do things look blue? Are collections slow and are bills piling up? Is your establishment stagnating from a lack of energy, ginger, enthusiasm? Then, says a writer in the Book-keeper, ginger up!

Are you up against it in every sense of the word—eligible for membership in the Down-and-Out club? Does it seem as if the crack of doom is about to enter the city limits? Have you accepted failure as the inevitable end and do you now wait patiently, but fearfully, for the coming of the shroud? Have you given up the battle? If you haven't, then don't! Don't do it anyhow.

But ginger up! Send the office boy scurrying after the ginger jar. Get it out of that corner where it has been hidden for over a decade, untouched and covered with dust and cobwebs. Open it and take some goodly portions of its contents. There now! You feel better. A smile lights up your countenance. A determination has been inoculated in your system. You become enthusiastic. It is contagious and your employees are enthused, too. You rally, you fight, "I will" becomes your motto. "I can't" is thrown into the waste basket, where it belongs. You win! You must win! It's natural.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"WELL, if I were any good at that sort of thing, I'd love to make the presentation speech for you," insisted the lady, "but you know how stupid I am that way. Get Marion Ellis."

She is the cleverest speechmaker, the wittiest talker in the club.

She knows it. We all know it. And yet whenever we ask her to make a speech or do anything of that sort, she always sets up a wall similar to the above.

And then we fall all over ourselves to tell her how witty she is, and to recall past successes, and to hint the idea that anyone else could possibly do it one-fourth as well as she.

After we have kept up this program for some time she weakens and finally yields.

Why shouldn't she? She has gotten what she wanted—a large and powerful dose of praise and flattery.

Of course, you have met this lady, or rather some of her type—the self-deprecators.

They go about telling their friends how homely and how stupid and how uninteresting and unlikeable they themselves are, simply in order to extract complimentary contributions.

And the pity of it is they usually get them. Self-deprecation always poses as modesty.

I suppose it may be that sometimes, but alas! times out of ten it is simply a sign of a most virulent case of vanity—a shameless fishing for compliments. The bait is modesty and humility, but underneath the bait the hook of relentless vanity for flattery almost always lurks.

"Oh, dear, I wish I were as pretty as Alice!" sighs the self-deprecator. She knows just as well as you do that she is as pretty, and prettier, but she wants you to tell her so, and she thinks that is the easiest way to make you.

Do you want to know what your duty is if you are a friend of hers? Not to tell her so.

If you dislike the habit of self-deprecation as much as I do—and I'm sure you do—it's your duty to help cure her of it, and the best way is to refuse to rise to her bait.

Say, "Yes, it would be nice to be as pretty as Alice," and then change the subject.

She will open her eyes pretty wide for a moment, but if she is much of a girl she will probably begin to think a bit.

If you know her well enough, you might assist the thinking process. It may hurt at the time, but it will surely help in the end.

And, by the way, while you are assisting with the mote, don't forget to look for the beam.

A MARQUISSE BLOUSE, IN LINGERIE STYLE.

As will be observed, the design of this little waist is very simple, the great part of the elaboration being in the sleeves rather than in the blouse itself. The lace strapping across the upper part of the sleeve, with Irish crochet roses at the ends of the straps of lace makes a very pretty trimming. The sleeve is pulled at the elbow—another entirely new feature. The lace strapping and Irish roses also appear on the front of the blouse between the two motifs of embroidery which are set in at the shoulder.

THE STRAW HOOD WHICH PROTECTS THE HAIR.

Soft as a woolen fabric is the straw braid of which this turban-hood is made. The supple straw is folded softly over a small frame which forms the crown of the turban, and about the base of this crown is bound the strip of ribbon ending under a rosette at one side. There is no frame beneath the brim of the turban, which is made solely of the straw, arranged in such a manner that when desired it may be pulled down at the back in hood fashion, completely covering the hair and neck. These hoods come in various pretty colors or combinations, the one illustrated being of mixed blue and white straw, with pink lace trim.

MOTOR MILLINERY.

Artistic Headgear Arrives in the New Automobile Bonnets.

PERFUME GARDEN REVIVED.

It's Lots of Fun—A Doll Dressing Contest For Men—A Way to Rejuvenate Artificial Roses—If You Like Cucumbers, Serve Them Simmered.

Dear Ella—I told you that we had acquired a motorcar, didn't I? Well, if I didn't it was only because I am automobile crazy and at times am not responsible for my remarks. A man I know who utterly detests "cars" said recently that one of the reasons why women were so devoted to automobiles was because it gave them a chance of doing special stunts in dressing.

There may be something in this cynic's remark, maybe not, but who cares when one really loves to skim over the ground in a "lightning conductor," gowned in smart and suitable foggy, minus the horrid goggles and other paraphernalia which nobody wears nowadays?

"Quaint," my dear. This is the latest word used in and out of season in society parlance. It best describes my newest motor bonnet. How do you like the stunning little motor creation a picture of which I am including in this record? One might almost imagine that it had been designed to illustrate the remark Miss May Morris, the daughter of the celebrated William Morris, made when she lectured here in New York last winter that we owe to the motorcar the only artistic headgear that has been seen in recent years. One of its attractions is that it is light and comfortable and can be reduced by folding to a compact size.

will permit of its being carried in the pocket.

The bonnet is developed in gray blue silk. And, apropos of motor headgear, there is a learned scientist who has discovered that it is causing baldness among women. I think he must have been inspired by an unkind desire to keep the fair sex from enjoying itself. It is generally understood that one must not so expose the hair to dust as to make frequent washing necessary, but just why a light protective wrapping of silk or straw should be injurious is not quite clear. Women of past generations tossed their fair heads in huge bonnets, in sunbonnets and quilted hoods, in night caps and day caps of various kinds. So if covering the hair would produce baldness it is strange that the human race was not bald long ago.

There certainly are many women who have to do with sweeping and must either wear caps or have their hair filled with dust. Possibly the learned scientists can tell us why sweeping is less injurious than motoring.

A Perfume Garden.

It's the latest in gardening. "And a very little space will suffice to raise the sweetest of the perfume plants, this term being understood to mean those plants which in their flower, root or branch furnish a permanent fragrance in a form immediately available for use," says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion. She says further: "Lavender comes to every one's mind in this connection, the sweet lavender of the old fashioned linen room and press being probably the most widely known of all those plants, familiar even to those who have little idea how it grows." The seed is listed, but it is better, says this authority, to buy the plant already started, for seedlings do not run true to the variety. The lavender vera is the real sweet lavender. Give it an open, light, rather dry soil and full sunlight and free air.

It is shrubby and grows from two to three feet high. Its blossoms come in July and August and are exquisitely fragrant. Cut the flower stalks with plenty of surrounding green—the fragrance is in the green corolla and even in the leaf and branch—in clear weather, in early flower, early in the morning before the dew is off the plant, and hang immediately to dry.

But, to talk of a rose discovery, here is a scheme for a fragrant home—wife and home milliner. At least one brand of gelatin comes with a separate package of coloring material. Now, have just for once as dessert plain lemon or orange jelly and save the colored liquid for restoring to beauty last year's faded white roses. If you do you may have a new hat trimmed with American Beauty blossoms for nothing at all, only it is not as simple as that.

In the first place, you make two shades of pink. For the ends of the petals you make a very deep shade of pink. The roses are then brushed and dusted and dipped into the lighter tone.

Then dip just the edges into the darker shade. As the roses are still wet, the two colors will blend without leaving a harsh line.

Now hang the roses up to dry with the petals downward. At this stage they will look very discouraging, limp and wilted and the leaves stuck together. But when they are partly dry they must be taken down and each little petal pulled out with the fingers and the whole rose crushed gently with the hand to make the petals curl. If this is not done the petals will stick together in a very unrose-like manner. When they are dry the roses will be quite ready for your renovated hat, and they will look as if they had just come from the millinery shop.

A Doll Contest.

I seem to be unloading all my fads and fancies upon you today, but you're strong and can stand an awful amount of nerve strain. Besides, you have lost too lots of times to transmit any stray ideas I might have about me concerning new features for fairs. I obey. Materialized, the idea is this: A contest of dolls dressed by men, which is sure to prove a popular novelty at a bazaar. The contributors may be sent their dolls to dress or donate their own. They must be put on their honor to do every stitch of the work, with not even a suggestion from women friends.

The dolls are displayed during the fair and may be awarded a prize for the best dressed, the most artistic, the most original, the neatest.

More money will be made if people are allowed to vote for the different prize winners. The dolls can be auctioned later. It will add to the amusement if each man writes a sketch or rhyme descriptive of his troubles as a dresser. These should be signed by initials and strung around the neck of the doll.

My farrowest number will be a recipe for cooking cucumbers in their skins, which, I am sure, will be a new one to you. It makes, however, a dish very attractive to the eye as well as to the taste. "Wash and simmer the vegetables without peeling until tender when tried with a fork and serve with a rather thick cream sauce. The combination of the white sauce with the pale green of the cucumber is very pretty. When you give a white and green luncheon try the cucumbers for an entree. Devotedly yours, Why Suffer With Disease?

The Chiropractor Knows a Way For You to be Well. Why Not Let Him Tell You.

Years of suffering with accounting no help possible has made many people skeptical of any claim to conquer disease.
I do not blame them, but an earnest desire to be well should at least prompt the sufferer to make an investigation.
That's what I ask you to do, come and let me prove to you that the Chiropractic Science, the new way of removing disease, will do for you.
We call it new but it's old. It has existed since the first pain, evidence of some unnatural condition. That it is not better known today is the fault of individuals and not of the science, for it's so plain, natural and sensible that it proves its own case.

If you suffer with any disease; if you have tried medicine, doctors and nurses; if you feel that your case is hopeless and good health gone forever I offer you a way to be well.
What's better still I prove my claims by my work and the ones who are today well and happy through the wonderful Chiropractic Adjustments by which they are made well are still better proof of my claims. If you are a sick man or woman come to my office and investigate my claims. Is it not worth that effort to know of a certain way to be well and keep well?

CROWD TAXED THE CHURCH'S CAPACITY

People Who Went to Hear Baccalaureate Sermon to Graduates at Monroe Had to Be Turned Away.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., June 7.—The crowd that assembled at the Methodist church to witness the baccalaureate service, was so large that standing room was at a premium and it is estimated that as many as a hundred or more were turned from the doors. An organist, Chas. B. Bolander, played the opening strains of the march, the class of 1910 marched in and took their places, directly in front of the pulpit, followed by the high school faculty and members of the board of education. Rev. W. H. Hartman's sermon to the class, emphasizing in a few words, urged each one of them to concentrate his efforts along a certain line, to have a fixed purpose in mind, to strive ever and on until the goal of success has been reached. He urged the undergraduates not to give up school during the four years' course, but to finish themselves with a broader and higher education than is found in those who have given up the course, and when high school days are over, if possible, go to college or the university to better equip themselves for positions in business life.
The church was decorated in the colors of green and yellow, having festoons of evergreen and yellow flowers adorning the sides of the church.
"Through Trials to Triumphs" occupied a prominent position in an arch over the choir.

Bouquet for "Fan," W. W. Chadwick, who has always been a loyal rooter and supporter of the Monroe high school football team,
and who is now confined to his bed, following months of illness, was presented with a box of beautiful red roses by the team of 1909, as a token of good will from the boys. Mr.
Chadwick was greatly pleased over the flowers and sent word to the boys that the large flag which has always adorned his front porch, shall be unfurled as ever as the boys so marching past the house on their way to victory to the ball grounds.

JANESVILLE BOY IS LOCATED IN PEKIN

Charles Schuler is, on the Legation Guard in China's Capital Which is Center of Disturbances.

If the Chinese Boxers start another rebellion in the heart of the great Chinese empire and American life and property are in danger, Janesville will be particularly interested in the affair due to the fact that Charles Schuler of this city is one of the legation guard stationed at the American embassy in Pekin. Mr.
Schuler enlisted in the marine service some two years ago and after being stationed in the Philippines for a short time was transferred to Pekin and the legation guard. Just at present, the telegraphic reports from China show a great unrest and much destruction of property, so that many writers believe that the Boxers will make another attempt to drive the foreigners out of the country. If this takes place Mr. Schuler will see active service.

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 7, 1870.—Jailings.—Some roughs at-

result was a lively mous on the streets in which stones and other missiles were freely used. No arrests were made.

and active worker in the church of

vices will be observed at the residence of the family at five o'clock

INDECENT POSTALS
VERY SELDOM SENT

Postal Authorities Relegate Suggestive Post Cards to Dead Letter Office.

Between thirty and fifty post cards, either because they bear indecent or immoral pictures or writing, or because they are intentionally addressed, are sent to the dead letter office from the Janesville post office every week. Sometimes the total exceeds fifty but the general average is maintained which shows that some people never learn or that the class of ignorant patrons of the mail service is constantly receiving recruits.

Postal regulations are strict concerning the carrying of any commucation that is at all out of the way.
An immoral or indecent post card becomes material for the dead letter office as soon as it is dropped into the mail box and the same rule holds for cards that carry writing that is openly vulgar or indecent.

The postal authorities also draw the line on those post cards. These must be enclosed in an envelope to which a two-cent stamp must be affixed before the message will be accepted. This ruling is the result of an accident two years ago in the Milwaukee office where a clerk in handling one of the indecent cards, cut his finger and contracted blood poison.

Another new ruling by the postoffice department allows users of the mails to send postal to which clippings must adhere closely to the card however, and will not be sent if fastened with clips or string.

Stamps in Rolls.

For the convenience of manufacturers and others who use large quantities of stamps, the government is putting out the stamps in a new form.
Those who ask for them, will receive a roll instead of a sheet of stamps, the roll containing five hundred. This permits the user to place the roll in almost any style of stamping machine now in use and results in the saving of much time as formerly the stamps had to be separated and placed in the machine and this required considerable work.

TAFT HAS WON A BIG VICTORY

PRESIDENT HALTS INJUNCTION
WHILE AWAITING NEW RAILROAD LAW.

ROADS WITHDRAW NEW RATES

Officials of Western Trunk Lines and Nation's Executive Agree to Let Commerce Commission Decide Fairness of Higher Tariffs.

Washington, June 7.—President Taft has won his fight against the commodity rate increases by the western trunk line railroads.

At the end of a four-hour conference with the president in the executive offices, the representatives of the Western Trunk line committee consented to the announcement that they would withdraw the proposed increases in freight rates which the administration had enjoined by the federal court in Missouri early last week.

Commission to Review Rates.
They further consented to make no further effort to increase rates until the pending railroad bill has become a law. This means that all future increases in rates proposed by these railroads must be reviewed by the interstate commerce commission before such new rates become effective.

A multitude of 11 months is allowed the commission in which to investigate the proposed rate increases, under the bill as it is passed by the senate, so that there is approximately a full year ahead under which the old rates must be maintained, in consequence of the agreement which the administration forced from the railway men. So far this arrangement binds only the western roads.

Will Confer With Eastern Chiefs.

But at the White House this afternoon President Taft will have before him Presidents Brown of the New York Central line, Mott of the Pennsylvania road and such other eastern railway chiefs as they desire to bring with them for a conference along lines similar to those of the western conference. There is every reason to believe that the president will make a similar proposition to his colleagues today and that it will be accepted, whereby all possibility of increases in rates for the present will be avoided.

In return for the withdrawal of the proposed increased rates the president, agreed to discontinue the injunction proceedings instituted against the Western Trunk committee. But it is expressly understood that this action will not be discontinued until the completed railroad bill, as agreed to finally by the two houses of congress, has received the signature of the president.

Triumph for Administration.

The agreement is a distinct triumph for the administration. By a deft use of the Sherman anti-trust law, invoked as a club at the last hour, the threatened increase in freight rates held in check until congress finally put into the president's hand the means whereby the interstate commerce commission will have at all times the full means of regulating all freight charges.

CALL EXPERT IN FLOUR SUIT.

Dr. H. P. Jones Says Nitrates Are Not In Nature's Products.

Kahana City, Mo., June 7.—Testifying in the bleached flour case in the federal court here, Dr. Hamilton P.
Jones of New Orleans said nitrates were never found in anything nature produces so long as that thing is in a healthy state. Nitrates sometimes found their way into flour or vegetables through contact with the soil, he admitted, however.

It is the government's contention in the flour cases that nitrates are found in bleached flour; that they are dangerous and that also the bleaching process causes them.

FORMOSA TEA IS BARRED OUT

Importers Denounce Government; Claim Unusual Drought Is Cause.

New York, June 7.—Because of government action, and according to some importers, because it favors to some extent of discrimination some of the biggest tea houses in the country stand to lose sales of several million pounds of Formosa tea, the government board of exports having raised the standard of Formosa tea on the ground that importations of the July, August and September crop were inferior in quality. The importers of Formosa declared that this was due to drought. The shipments were excluded.

HEIKE DENIES SUGAR FRAUDS.

Declares There Was No Underweighing at Trust's Refinery.

New York, June 7.—Charles R.
Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, one of the three men on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government of customs duties, declared on the witness stand that there had been no sugar underweighing frauds at the trust's Williamsburg refinery. He asserted in support of his statement that the profits of that plant were generally lower than those of the sugar company's other refineries. Heike again professed ignorance of any use of fraudulent scales.

Chester Woodward, a director of the Nassau Trust company, Brooklyn, testified that Oliver Spitzer, the former dock superintendent, convicted and pardoned and now adding the prosecution, had deposited a total of $106,457 in the bank between May and November, 1907. He was then in the sugar company's employ. These figures caused a stir in the courtroom, Spitzer having testified that his salary was only $15 a week.

FEARS CITIES MAY GO BROKE.

Ex-Gov. Herrick Warns Municipalities

Against Extravagant Expenses.

Columbus, O., June 7.—Fears that trouble would one day strike the United States as a result of present extravagant and excessive municipal city and states might before long reach bankruptcy from extraordinary expenditures were expressed by former Gov. Myron T. Herrick at the convention of the Ohio Bankers' association. Colonel Herrick intimated that the time may come when cities will have no credit with the bankers if they persist in extravagance. He said that in the past few years the expenses of the national government have been doubled and the expenses of municipalities have been tripled, while the wealth of the country shows no corresponding increase.

UNIVERSITY WANTS COLONEL?

voy Is in England.

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—A private telegram received from Ann Arbor
from a source considered reliable here, says that George P. Codd, member of the board of regents of the University of Michigan, "is in England for the purpose of asking Theodore Roosevelt to accept the presidency of the University of Michigan."

Lightning Stripped Victim.

During a thunderstorm near Glasgow a golf player named George Harrie was struck and killed by lightning, which ripped off his clothing, including his boots, and extracted all his teeth. It made a hole three feet deep where he had been standing.

HALF A CHANCE

By Frederic S. Isham,

Author of "The Strollers," "Under the Rose," "The Lady of the Mount," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBE-MERRILL COMPANY

Something fell from the velvet covering in her hand. She was vaguely aware of it gleaming there on the cold white marble, a small disk—a gold coin. Then slowly she took it as if asking herself how it came there on her handkerchief, which she dimly remembered, had been lying on the floor. Some one, of course, must have picked up the handkerchief, but no one had been in the room since she had noticed it except—

More closely she scrutinized it, the shining disk on her rosy palm. A King George gold piece! Above the mon-arch's face and head with its flowing locks appeared a tiny hole, as if some one had once worn it. Beneath, just discernible, was the date, 1702. She continued to regard it, then looked again at the bit of velvet near by. It had been wrapped in that carefully—for what reason. Like something more than what it seemed—a mere gold piece.

"1702." Why, even as she gazed at the cloth, felt it, did the figures seem to reiterate themselves in her brain?
"1702." There could be nothing especially significant about the date. Yet even as she concluded this by some introspective process she saw herself bending over, studying those figures on another occasion. Herself, and yet—

She was looking straight before her now. Suddenly she started and sprang up. "A King George gold piece!" Her hair, unbound, fell around her, below her waist. Her eyes, like amphibians, gazed out from a veritable whimper of gold. "Date?" She paused.
"Why, this belonged to an old man as a child, and I—"

The blue eyes seemed searching—searching. Abruptly she found what she sought. "I gave it to the convict on the Lord Nelson." She almost whispered the words. "The brave, brave fellow who sacrificed his life for mine." Her warm fingers closed softly on the coin. She seemed wrapping it in the picture this recalled.

"Then how?" Her brows knitted;
she swept the shining disk from her face. "If he were drowned, how could it have been left here by—" Her eyes were dark now with excitement.
"Him? Him?" she repeated. "Unless," her breast suddenly heaved, "he was not drowned, after all. He!"

A sudden shot from the park rang out. The coin fell from the girl's hand.
Other shots followed. She ran out upon the balcony, a stifled cry on her lips. She stared off, but only the darkness met her gaze.

Not far from one of the entrances to Regent's park or the hum of Camden Town's main artery of traffic lay a little winding street, which because of its curving lines had long been known as Spiral row. Into this byway there turned late in the night of the second day after that memorable evening at Strathorn House a man who, looking quickly around him, paused before the closed gate of one of the dwellings.

After a moment's hesitation the man pulled the bell, waited for some time, but in response came. When from the end of the street he heard a vehicle coming rapidly toward him he more firmly jerked at the handle of the bell.
This time his efforts were successful.
A glimmer as from a candle appeared at the front door, and a few minutes later a dark form came slowly down the gravelled walk.

"Good evening, Dennis," said the caller. "The faint gleam of the candle revealed the doorway and unmistakably Cottie face of him he addressed, a man past middle age, who regarded the newcomer with a look of recognition.
"I'm afraid I've interrupted your slumbers. This is rather a late hour at which to arrive."

"No matter, sir. Sure and I sat up expecting you, Mr. Steele, until after midnight and had only just turned in when—"

"What?" The newcomer, now fairly within the garden, could not suppress a start of surprise, which, however, the other, engaged in relocking the gate, did not appear to notice. "Expecting?"

"Although I'd given up thinking you'd be here tonight," the latter went
on. "But wouldn't you be stopping in,
sir?"

The other silently followed, walking in the manner of one tired and worn.
"My master did not come back with you, sir, from Strathorn House?"

"No; Captain Forsythe's gone on to Germany."

The servant's glance rested now in some surprise on the newcomer's garments—a gamekeeper's well worn coat and cap and on the dusty, almost shabby looking shoes.

"A vagabond," said John Steele, noting the old orderly's expression. "From Strathorn House to London by foot within a given time, don't you know.
Fell in with some rough customers last night who thought my coat and hat better than these."

"I beg your pardon, sir, but—" The man's apprehensive look fastened itself on a dark stain on the coat near the shoulder.

have a look arounds might have your master a few shillings."

John Steele looked his door. The "master man" crossed the upper hall and stepped, one after the other, into the several rooms. Having apparently made there the necessary examination, he walked over and tried the door of John Steele's room.

"This room's occupied by a visitor," interposed the servant, "and he's asleep
now. He wouldn't thank you for the disturbing of his repose."

"All right, I'll not wake him. Don't find the lock I was looking for. Will drop in again."

John Steele, pushing back the blinds a little, looked out of his room. The man who had reached the front of the place glanced back. His gaze at that instant, meeting the other's, seemed to betray a momentary eagerness. Quickly Steele turned away. No doubt now lingered in his mind as to the purpose of the visit.

CHAPTER XIII.
FLIGHT.

STEELE mounted the stairs to the attic. From the high window there he could see, around a curve in the row, a looming figure. Quickly coming down to the second story, he began cautiously to examine from the window the situation of the house in relation to adjoining grounds and neighboring dwellings.

To the right the top of the high wall alone with the customary broken bits of glass; the rear defenses glinted also in formidable fashion. If noted, however, several places where this safeguard against unwelcome invasion showed signs of deterioration.
In one or two spots the jagged fragments had been broken or had fallen off. These slight breaks in the continuity of irregular, menacing glass bits so fixed in mind by a certain strut or tree. Against the rear wall, which was of considerable height, leaned his neighbor's low conservatory, almost spanning it from side to side.

"Sure, sir, I don't know whether it's breakfast or supper that's waiting for you," Captain Forsythe's man had reappeared and stood now at the top of the landing looking in at him. "It's a sound sleep you're had."

John Steele glanced at the clock.
The afternoon was waning.
The servant was now eyeing the visitor dubiously. John Steele wheeled, a perfunctory answer on his lips, and,
going to the dining room, swallowed hastily a few mouthfuls.

He made up his mind as to his course then, the last desperate shift.
And a turmoil of thoughts a certain letter he had had in mind to send to Captain Forsythe occurred to him, and, calling for paper and pen, he wrote there, facing the window, fev-erishly, hastily, several pages. Then he gave the letter to the servant for the postman, whose special call at the iron knocker without had just sounded. The letter would have served John Steele ill had it fallen into his enemies' hands, but once in the care of the royal mails it would be safe.
If it were, indeed, that person at the gate and not some one—

"One moment, Dennis!" The man paused. "Of course you will make sure it is the postman?"

"As if I didn't know his knock!" he said, departing.

John Steele's pulses now throbbed expectantly. He had obtained a key to the gate and moved toward the front door. By this time the darkness had deepened, and, key in hand, he stepped out.

The Important
Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

Why Have an Overheated Kitchen in Summer?

When the sultry days come and the coal range makes the kitchen almost unbearable and cooking a dreaded task, put out the range fire and try the newest method of cooking in hot weather—use a

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

What a contrast! The kitchen no longer is stifling hot, the work is now done with comfort, and the housewife is not worn out with the heat.

The New Perfection does everything that any other stove can do—all the family cooking, baking, washing and ironing. No smoke, no dust, no odor. Heat is applied directly and not wasted. A turn, and the flame is out.

The New Perfection stove has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for the coffee pot or saucepans, and nicked towel racks.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove very attractive and invites cleanliness. Made with 1, 2 and 3-burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

"Why, Elmer! You look like an Amsterdam Dutchman!"

THE COCA-COLA COMPANY, Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen: The hardest thing a ball player has to contend with is thirst, because if you try to satisfy it with water, you either get loggy or lose your "Ginger" or it makes you sick, while alcoholic beverages are fatal to good ball. I drink because I find that a single glass quenches the thirst, refreshes me and relieves fatigue without any after "let down." Therefore a splendid beverage for keeping condition. I cheerfully recommend it to all athletes. Very truly yours, HUGH JENNINGS.

Coca-Cola
